

13 Years (kitselman)

13 years and it's finally healed, That crazy thing you made us feel

But it still lives near the surface

I guess I didn't know you well, Not enough that I could tell

You had endangered your purpose

Never one for long good byes

Nicely played that big surprise

CHORUS:

I've still got this attic full of memories

I could never bring myself to throw anything away

They live up there in boxes on the floor boards

After 13 years they're coming back downstairs to stay

Nashville, Boston, and New York, She made it rain she made it work

She bet it all on the band

When it finally ran its course, she went in deeper made it worse

Until the tracks ran to the sand

Never one for long good byes

Nicely played that big surprise

Chorus

Break: All the Zanex in the world // Could not bring back the girl

Once they betrayed her name // At a motel on the beach

She put herself out of reach // She shut down the game

13 years and it's finally healed, the fog has lifted and it's clear

And I remember why I'm here

I wish someday we'd know the truth they owed that much to you

But not a word in 13 years

Never one for long good byes

Nicely played that big surprise

Chorus
