

Learn By Falling (allen kitselman)

Seems your golden boy has lost his color
Another win has been given to the other side
The color of trust is not green or brown
I'm the one who knows because I've picked myself up off the ground

Not once, not twice, more times than you can hide
Just another lesson from this life so deep and wide

It's time to start the healing now

And Learn by falling

I won't quit because you gave out

Because I learn by falling

Didn't I tell you to leave yourself a back door?
Keep a little safety net for the times when your luck runs out
The color of failure is the brightest shade of red
I've seen it every time my dreams show up dead

Not once, not twice, more times than you have said
All those silly things that went straight to my head

CHORUS

(Em- C tag into lead)

The extra mile is done, the train has reached the station
Guess I'll be getting off and you'll be going on to your destination
now

The color of my friends is the brightest shade of gold
They still believe in me no matter what they've been told

Not once, not twice, more times than they can count
They're still betting that one day I'm going to figure it out

CHORUS X 2