

Looking Out the Window for You (hansbarger)

You were up above Eli in a portage canoe
Going lake to lake to find something new
And I was stuck here in Cleveland in a doldrum mess
In a meeting that lasted too long.

I'm inspired by your freedom in spite of myself,
But I'm tired of being alone.

Ooo...I guess that's why...

Ooo...I guess that's why...

I keep looking out that window for you.

We met over Jesus when we were sixteen.
I was reading the Bible, you were laughing at me.
It didn't take long till you took me in hand
And we wandered away from that scene.

We ran with the Devil till we wore that fool out,
And I still like to lie by your side.

CHORUS

You and I have disagreed
About the way we should proceed.
But if I shut my mouth, will you come back now,
And we'll see where this all leads.

I trust your devotion; I know that it's true.
I know that you love me and I want only you.
I hope that you understand the things that I do.
The injuries are bigger than you.

I'm inspired by your freedom in spite of myself,
I'm just frightened of being alone.
